

October 27, 2010

Media Alert / Photo opportunity

Nambour High Goes Pink

Who: Nambour State High School

What: Nambour High Goes Pink

Nambour High teachers and students will show their support for PINKTOBER® for Cindy Mackenzie Breast Cancer Foundation with a free dress day in pink and black raising money for the Foundation. The day includes a morning tea for teachers in Hungerford Hall at 10.45am. Community welcome. Students will form a "C" on their oval at 1.30pm

When: Thursday, October 28, 2010

10.45am Morning Tea / 1.30pm Students form a "C" on oval

Where: Nambour State High School, 1 Carroll St, Nambour

Editor's note:

Cindy Mackenzie Breast Cancer Foundation co-founder and vice president Kylie Perkin said she was delighted with the students' support.

"It means a lot to the Foundation that the students are planning and organising to make our symbol on their oval," she said.

The students involved in putting the day together have all been touched by some form of cancer so it makes the day even more meaningful.

"It shows how everyone, no matter their age, is affected by cancer and how they can contribute to making a difference."

Launched in 2007, the Cindy Mackenzie Breast Foundation raises funds to support Sunshine Coast breast cancer sufferers and their families with financial and practical support including meals, housework, gardening, ironing and payment of medical bills.

In the past twelve months the Foundation has supported over 60 women and their families across the Sunshine Coast with practical, financial and or emotional support.

We would be delighted if you would cover this event.

For further information, please contact:

Maria Starr, Nambour High: (m) 0438 500 849; (o) 5450 4123; (h) 5450 0694;
Kylie Perkin, Cindy Mackenzie Breast Cancer Foundation: (m) 0409 309 564